Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson has returned from Bristol, where he had a conference with leading Democrats of the various countles and cities of the Ninth Dis-

When he was asked as to the result of his conference and the study of the situation there, he said:

"I think our prospects there are very good. This was the largest conference of the kind I have ever seen in the distriot. The representative Democrats, whom I met, all seemed to be impressed with the idea that they were going to win, and I believe that was so noticeable in the campaign of two years ago. At that time a great many seemed to be doubtful about winning, but this year I was struck with the feeling manifested by all present that we are going to win. The Ninth District Democrats believe we are going to elect our national tacket as well as the congressman."

Asked as to the Republican claim that their parity had a large majority of those who had qualified to vote by payment of the poil tax, Mr. Ellyson said he did not flad such a condition existing.

hand.

Mr. Ellyson said that Mr. Wysor was making an active and successful campaign, and he thought that all that was necessary in order to win was to keep it up. This district would be closely canvussed by the best speakers to he had.

Mr. Bilyson stated that headquarters would be opened in this city early in September, and that the campaign would be limited to about two months, but would not be allowed to lag. He preferred a short, vigorous campaign to a long-drawn out one. Colonel Button, the secretary of the State Committee, will probably arrive in the city to-day. Mr. Filyson himself will leave to-day for lauquier county to-day to attend a religious assemblage, and later in the week he expects to go to the Shenandonh Valley to attend an association there. He probarly would not he able to attend the Davie notification ceremonies, he said. Colonel Button, secretary of the committee, will go.

"We said we were going to row to Richmond," said Mrs. Walker, "and everybody laughed at us and bet that we wouldn't got they said we wouldn't got more than five miles down the river. Of course that made us all the more determined to go. So we are here and I'm sorry only that we are not going back on a freight, which we would do if they'd let us."

Mr. Hurt, who is the son of a prominent miller of the Hill City, was put forward as the spokesman and told the story of the trip with many good-natured and jesting interruptions from the rest of the party. Ho was dressed in a khaki uniform.

"This old suit," Mr. Hurt said, "made several of the farmers suspicious and when I asked one of them for a night's lodging, he said the rest could come in the house, but I'll have to stay in the cow-shed. We had a fine trip and nearly everybody was nice to us, especially the C. & O. officials.

The Richmond people are the most hospitable in the world. "Tell about that night you and Mr. Latchford gof so scared, "I'ger," said Miss Walker.

Mr. Hurt and Mr. Latchford laughingly denied the allegation, but Miss' Walker insisted that it was true and said: "We got lost in a swamp by going on the wrong side of the river near Sabot, and rowed about five miles before we got out. At The Casino.

The Century Minstrels may not be great in numbers, but they give an entertainment that is thoroughly pleasing, and they well mcrited the applause accorded them at the Casino last night. The first part is quite up to the average, though of course there are not so many men in the semi-circle. Frank Fogarty does good work on one of the ends. He sang "The Man Behilad," which Richmond is beginning to hear a little too often, but nevertheless he received a number of encores. In his monologue Fogarty scored a decided hit, making a better impression than he did on the end. His talk was fast, and was delivered with a snap and "go" that didn't give the audlence time to decide whether to laugh or not, and not having time to decide, they laughed right along, so as not to miss anything that was coming to them. And they got it all, and some of it was the genuine smith and Baker did a spiendid singing.

The and some of it was the gendine article.

Smith and Baker did a splendid singing and dancing act. The one with the Doc Quigley legs did some very good eccentric dancing. This number was good from start to finish.

The three American Musical Stars made music that was not half bad; indeed, it was better than that of the majority of such iteams. The cornedian of the team was very clever.

The Symphony and Four were week, and the performance would have been better without their act.

La Velle and Grant closed the performance with an exhibition of hand balancing that was excellent, and the act held the audience until the finish.
